The Literary Digest Poll Gives Coolidge Big Majority

Granting the Doubtful States, President In the Lead.

G.O.P 327 ELECTORS

Non-Partisan Poll Gives the Republican Candidate Double Davis and LaFollette.

President Coolidge seems certain to receive more than enough electoral votes to retain his office for another term on the basis of the final returns of the Literary Digest's non-partisan national poll

Of the grand total of 2,386,052 ballots recorded, Coolidge receives 1,348,033 votes, LaFollette, 508,516, and Davis 505,410. The balance of 24,093 votes are scattered among the other five regular candinates.

Wisconsin, casting 13 electoral votes, is the only State which accords Senator LaFollette a plurality in the Digest poll The States credited to Mr. Davis include, Virginia, North Carolina, South Carolina. Georgia. Florida, Alabama Tennessee. Kentucky, Mississippi, Arkansas, Louisiana, and Texas, representing a total electoral vote of 139.

But according to the Digest's figures Senator LaFollette has evidenced considerable strength in California, Nevada. North Dakota. and South Dakota, which if he gain on election day would increase his electoral votes to a total of 99.

The Digest states that in pursuing this policy of giving the benefit of doubtful states to a vigorous contender for leadership in the state, Mr. Davis might be credited with Oklahoma, West Virginia and Maryland, which would increase his electoral poll 26 votes, making him a total of 165.

Granting the Democratic and Progressive candidates these states, where President Coolidge is leading by a narrow plurality, it would leave the President 327 electoral votes, with 266 required for election to the executive chair.

On a special map which the Digest has prepared from the final figures of its record-breaking poll, 28 states are marked Republican, 12 Democrats, 1 Progressive, and 7 Doubtful. A special table showing the official returns by states in the Harding-Cox election of 1920 is also presented.

"Here are the final figures, states the Digest, in summation. of its poll, "presented in that spirit of non-partisanship, of honest desire to get at all sides of a complex question which the Digest among other American periodicals, has made peculiarly its own.

"Briefly, Mr. Coolidge receives more votes than all his opponents put together, and Mr. LaFollette receives a shade larger popular vote than goes to Mr. Davis.

"The Digest does not predict the election of Mr. Coolidge. It presents its findings, vouches for the honesty and general accuracy of its poll, and leaves its readers to draw

LABORITES HAVE FEW MORE DAYS

They Must Either Resign or Suffer Themselves to be Read Out By King's Address.

LONDON, Oct. 31. (AP) —The laborite cabinet headed by Premier Mac Donald after a two hour session today is understood to have decided to remain in office for a few days and then resign before the assembling of the new parliament. The cabinet is expected to resign next week rather than meet the new parliament and to be turned out upon king's address. A desire on the part of the government to remain in office several days longer is attributed to the fact that is is necessary to clear up departmental business. Another cabinet meeting is planned Tuesday but members of the cabinet it is understood, have left the premier free to decide upon his resignation before then if he so desires.

Dogmas Are Harmful To the Churches

LONDON, Oct. 31. (AP) —"The churches cannot afford to be hampered by unintelligent beliefs which greatly weaken their influence on those who are worth influencing; religion stands on ground which cannot be assailed; it has no use for rickety defences." Such were the words in which Prof. J. S. Haldane, of New College, Oxford, brother of England's lord chancellor, told the Conference of Modern Churchmen of the harm done to Christianity by ancient dogmas which, he said, were not in keeping with present-day knowledge. He was discussing biology and religion Prof Haldane admitted that he was not a church member and proceeded to tell the conference the reason why.

"I am one of many." Prof. Haldane said, "who are kept away from existing churches by dogmas we cannot honestly countenance There is, perhaps, a still larger number who are actively hostile because they regard churches as hotbeds of superstition."

Continuing the speaker said: "If I belonged to a church at all it would be my own Scots church, for the one reason that it possesses the advantage of having no prayer book."

ATTENDANCE GOOD AT BAPTIST MEET

Dr. Crume Continues to Draw Fine Audiences—Subjects for Week Are Given Out.

A large crowd attended the services at the Baptist church last night. Many persons from the other churches in town making a part of the congregation. The interest grows greater as the services progress

The song services each evening in charge of W. A. Hoe are an important part of the meeting and assists in no little way the success of the services. Quartets, duets, solos and good old-fashioned congregational gospel singing give variation to the song service and make it very enjoyable. This is our first revival meeting where all home talent has been used in the song services and the results are just as pleasing as when outside talent was used.

Dr. Crume is still very popular Those who listen to him each night declare that every succeeding sermon is better than the last, and they are looking forward to hearing him the balance of this week. His subject for last night was 'The World's Greatest Detective' His text was taken from Numbers: "Be sure your sins will find you out." Attention was called to the fact that the Bible personifies sin and treats it in a sense as a detective. "Words truer than these have never been uttered." Dr. Crume said, and they are words of great moment. Sin is being uncovered today as never before in the world's history. Every day the papers tell the story of how some man's sin has found his out. This truth is proven in various ways We are told that God is omnipresent that is, present everywhere, and if He is in every place, he certainly sees every sin. That is what the Bible teaches. You may hide your sin from your family and friends, but God sees it He is all-wise and being so He sees and remembers every sin.

We are told that God is Holy, and as a Holy God He hates sin. We are told that God is just. As a just God, he must punish every violation of His law.

This truth is verified in your own experience. Think of the numbers of times your sin has found you out.

In illustrating this point Dr Crume told a story of an incident of his childhood. It happened that his father decided to raise a special kind of chickens and secured from a neighbor some pure-blooded Plymouth Rocks. Penning the rooster up he gave instructions that no one should open the door and let the rooster out. Dr. Crume says as he passed by the coop and saw the old rooster so dejected looking he just opened the door and turned him out. Dr. Crume said that taught him that your sin would find you out as everytime he saw a rooster he remembers the time he let one out of a coop. I am glad he says, that I early learned this truth. Dr. Crume sketched briefly over the lives of men recorded in the Bible who had sinned and showed in every instance their sin was made known.

"I have no patience," he continued, with those little soft-soled people who believe that God is satisfied with them."

"There are different ways in which your sin may find you out—in science by a finger print, a cuff link dropped unnoticed, or many little things that escape your attention.

Your sin may find you out in your countenance. A man who is not living right cannot look up into the face of God.

Your sin may find you out in your body as in the case of a drunkard, in the bloodshot eyes and red nose.

Your sin may find you out in your conscience. A conscience is like a sleeping volcano that awakes after so long and then you know the torments of the damned. Sin may find you out in the judgment. Every knee shall bow and every tongue shall confess."

Subjects that Dr. Crume will discuss during the remaining days of the meeting:

BUSINESS GOOD FOR OCTOBER

Situation Is Satisfactory and Optimis Prevails In Business Circles.

FRANKFORT, Oct. 31. (AP) —The record of general business and industrial activity in the Eighth last thirty days was one of improvement 'partially seasonal and pursuing an extremely conservative and individual course," says the October review of the district, including Kentucky, issued recently

Distribution of commodities continued large, as indicated by freight loadings, debits to bank accounts and reports of manufacturers wholesalers and retailers, according to the review, but nowhere was there apparent a rush to buy and purchases representated principally 'goods needed for current consumption

"Taken as a whole," the report says, "the situation is more satisfactory, with the improvement well enough defined to sustain the recent optomism and supply the basis for expectation of further reasonable expansion in late fall and winter trade."

The unusually high temperatures prevailing almost continuously in September and the first weeks in October are said to have proved a "serious handicap" to the movement of heavy apparel and other seasonable goods.

"Increased activities in the industrial centers reduced the number of idle workers and additions were made by railroads to their forces," says the review. 'The most marked betterment occurred in the coal fields, where a number of the mines resumed operations, and the working time at active mines was slightly increased In the lead and zinc fields some surplus exists, but there continues a strong call for common labor for road building and river improvement work.

"Completion of hurvs of certain crops released some labor in the country, but there is an excellent demand for experienced help on the farms. With but few exceptions the supply of labor in the cotton sections has been adequate. Both common and skilled workers continue well employed in the building industry."

Conditions in the agricultural sections are said to have shown an added improvement. Harvesting of late crops progressed under favorable weather and marketing of the farm products continued on an extensive scale.

Rhine Resorts Ask For Home Support

WIESBADEN, Oct 31—(AP)—Since the Dawes plan has been adopted and the French have released their control of important railway junctions outside of the area occupied under the Versailles Treaty, this important resort hopes to regain much of the tourist business it enjoyed in pre-war days.

In 1913 Wiesbaden had 200,000 visitors; last year it had only 70,000. It not only lost its foreign patrons because of the upset conditions of the through train service and the many difficulties caused by the extension of the French occupation, but Germans also refused to avail themselves of the local mineral springs because of their dislike of the French occupation forces and their unwillingness to patronize railways operated by the French.

All the German watering places in the French occupied area have joined in an appeal to the German public to patronize them, and not let them fall into bankruptcy. The Rhine steamer traffic has again become normal. The entire Rhine area is hopeful that Germans will no longer avoid their most celebrated river, merely because French, Belgian and English forces are occupying its shores.

Michigan Has Many Forest Fires

DETROIT, Oct. 31. (AP)—Forest and brush fires are reported from four sections of Michiann today, one of which is believed to be the largest this season. Mesick, in the northwestern section of the state, will loose many acres of second growth timber. Two hundred men are fighting the fire there which is fanned by a high wind, and is spreading to virgin timber.

Fires are also reported from the upper peninsula and in Ogeonaw county in the lower peninsula.

GOOD TALKS AT THE CITY HALL

Sackett and Kash Have Large Audience at Political Rally Last Night.

Voters of the city and vicinity heard two good speeches at the city hall last night when they listened to Atty. Sam Kash, of Lexington, and Hon. Fred M. Sackett, candidate for the United States senate on the republican ticket.

Mr. Kash came as a substitute for Miss Genevieve R. Cline, of Cleveland, Ohio, the speaking tour of the latter having been changed.

Mr Kash spoke first and in a cogent talk of thirty minutes summed up the issues of the campaign state and national.

He was followed by Mr. Sackett, who devoted the larger part of his address to Kentucky topics. The speech was constructive more than destructive. Mr. Sackett asked for a business administration of Kentucky's affairs rather than a political administration.

The speaker is a convincing one and his talk was one of practical common sense that carried an appeal to every voter who has the best interests of the states and nation at heart.

Coal Making Epoch Before Time of Man

FRANKFORT, Ky., Oct. 31. —(AP).—No man, but animals saw the processes of the great coal making epoch in Kentucky, Dr. Jillson said, today discussing the origin of the state's greatest mineral.

"Air-breathing reptiles, though present, had not yet made their appearance in abundance. During all this time no man saw these processes take place. But the record of the animal life of the coal-making period is plain. Innumberable fossils show that it was an age in which invertebrate shell fish, bivalves and clam animals predominated in numbers. Early amphibians of small figure tracked their way across the muds and slimes of old shore lines and beaches."

Says That He Likes Him Because Politicians Do Not.

CAN SEE CLEARLY

Says He Understands the Difference Between American Business and Money Powers.

WASHINGTON, Oct. 31.—Henry Ford, Detroit Manufacturer, sent the following telegram to Arthur Brisbane of New York urging the election of President Coolidge and setting forth the reasons why he indorses him. Mr. Ford's telegram reads as follows:— Arthur Brisbane, New York. In reply to your telegram I support Calvin Coolidge and confidently expect his election for the following reasons. Our government has been free of the influence of the money powers during Calvin Coolidge's brief administration than for a long time before. He understands the difference between American business and money power. American business is the means by which we earn our living and supplies the need of the country. Agriculture, Manufacture and transportation are its three pillars. It is consturctive. The money power represents the exploiting, gambling and estructive counterfeits of business.

Two systems of business confront each other in this country, production for use as against production for profits only. Calvin Coolidge is on the side of productive service and prosperity. He is increasing the number of jobs in this country by drawing back into business the moneys that have been driven out by high taxes. The greatest prosperity will not arrest Calvin Coolidge's drive against high taxes. He is sprung from the old American stock which went south and west and fixed our American course and he will hold the government steady to that course. He is short on pmises and long on action. In our business we perfer the doers to the talkers. I want as good or better service for the nation as we insist upon in the Ford Motr company. Why all this talk about throwing the election congress? Who would want that except those who can not hope to control the people but could easily control congress. Such mistakes would indicate that Americans are intelligent enough to decide an election, and that is not the case. Americans are able to elect their own president and they are on guard against all efforts to cheat them out of that right. They believe in Calvin Collidge regardless of party because he is an honestminable man with a task that deserves the help of all forward minded men regardless of party. I like him because he knows how to think because he can see clearly and because the politicians do not like him. Signed, Henry Ford.

And political machines, as you may have heard, use a lot of gas.

Popularity Contest May Have Whirlwind Finish

Official Vote Tabulators Are Having to Work Overtime.

MAY BE UPSETS

Miss Carr Went Back Into the First Place; Miss Hurst Is Second and Miss Mattingly Stands Third on List.

As the second week of the American Legion Popularity contest draws to a close it is beginning to look like a whirl wind finish. Official vote tabulators worked overtime last night checking yesterdays tremendous vote. A total of 13500 votes found their way into the ballot box during the day. The daily vote is becoming larger each day.

Miss Louise Carr went back into first place with a total of 15380 votes. Miss Verdie Hurst dropped to second place with a total of 14100 votes Miss Mary Mattingly who has been a very consistent candidate during the entire contest finished the day with a total of 12300 votes and retains her position in third place. All candidates received nice blocks of votes during the day.

Many merchants received their second supply of votes yesterday. A survey of the contest by legion officials last night indicates that a large number of unaccounted for votes are out and many changes in the standing of the candidates are looked for at the end of the week.

Merchants are much pleased with the success of the contest and are very liberal in their praise of the plan as a business stimulent. Practically everybody in the city is interested in the progress of one or more of the candidates and as a result the American Legion is being congiuated on all sides.

Find Specimens of Famed Indian Legend Flower

Indian Pipes or Ghost Pipes Flowers

(By F. S. Lee)

Thursday forenoon, Thad Fitzpatrick, Wheeler T. Woodson and F. S Lee, who were roaming the autumn woods, up one of the ravines leading into the lake from the south, or Cumberland Mountain, side, found specimens of a flower that it had been thougnt was extinct in this locality. This flower is the famed Indian legend flower, Indian Pipes, or Ghost Pipes. It is altogether white and waxey in color and shaped like a pipe, and blooms in the late Summer and early Autumn. While searching thru some files of the newspapers published here during the early boom days of the nineties some four years ago, articles were frequently found about parties of Middlesboroans who had spent the preceding Sunday afternoon gathering the Indian Pipes or Ghost Pipes flowers in the Indian Summer days.

The Indian legend relates how Indian Pipes—little ghost flowers—stand in the dawn light along grass grown and all but forgotten trails, that were plucked by the hands of the Phantom Chiefs on their returning from their Long Star trails, in the Moon of Ginseng Berries, to hold Council Talks and to smoke the Calumets, with the Ghost Smoke from the Ghost Pipes making a soft haze of a dawn mist that veiled the sleeping hills, until the sunrise caused the chiefs to return to the Happy Land along the trails that they had walked in the White Wasso—the lost time of long yesterdays. That delver into Indian legends, Charles O. Rose has written a poem about this flower, which has been set to music by the composer of Indian music, Fellow Liegrance, and is one of the latest and best [illegible] poems in this

TARIFF MADE PAYROLLS

When men are out of work distress goes to the fireside. Those buying homes on the installment plan face the loss both of their homes and their invested savings. Those who have accumulated nest eggs, draw upon them.

When the Republican administration stepped into office in 1921 it inherited a business depression from the preceding Democratic regime—a depression which it overcame. During the depression 83 per cent of the families investigated by the Children's Bureau of the United States Department of Labor had gone into debt or were unable to continue payments for which they had obligated themselves. Sixty-six per cent had gone into debt for food; 35 per cent for medical attendance; 23 per cent for rent; 20 per cent for payments on houses; 16 per cent for fuel and light! 15 per cent for insurance premiums. Only one per cent has gone into debt for merchandise, which shows that in Democratic hard times the people do not buy merchandise—a situation spelling disaster alike to manufacturer, merchant and employee.

The report states that children were taken out of school and put to such work as they could pick up in order to piece out the family income. Unemployment brought lower family standards, anxiety and dread and had a disastrous effect upon the welfare of children.

Those who contend that the tariff is a cold blooded proposition of bargain counters piled high with cheap "handmade" foreign goods, can find in this food for reflection. Every free-trade law which the Democratis have enacted since the civil war has brought about the hard conditions described.

Did You Ever Stop to Think

By E. R. Waite, Secretary, Shawnee, Okla., Board of Commerce.

THAT nothing is as close to the home as the newspaper.

THAT the advertising columns are the greatest assemblers of buying information in existence.

THAT they are always performing the essential function of distributing the information that is so necessary for the public welfare.

THAT in them can be found assembled full information as to where can be bought all articles or service that may be by the public.

THAT the advertising columns are the clearing house for everything. There is nothing grown or manufactured that should not be found spread before the public in them.

THAT the business men of the home city are the lifeblood of the home city. Without them, you would have no city. As they progress, so will your city progress. If you want to know the names of your real business men, you can find their names in the advertising columns. Live business men advertise.

THAT the more prosperous the business men are, the more prosperous your city will be.

THAT if their business is poor, so will the chances of success of your city be poor.

BETTER BUSINESS for the home business men is the way to build your community into a bigger city. Boost business for the home city.

HUNT'S DAILY LETTER

BY HARRY B. HUNT
NEA Service Writer

WASHINGTON — Pennsylvania reestablishes her right to the title of the "Keystone State" by the testimony of her big business men who appeared before the Borah campaign fund investigating committee.

The men in that state, manufacturers had chipped in $365,000 to the G. O. P war chest prior to Oct 15 or one-fifth the sum Chairman Butler said had been received by the Republican National Committee to that date, revealed this rock-ribbed Republican commonwealth as the biggest real support of the party's campaign structure.

A study of how Pennsylvania Republicans handle their campaign financial job, however, soon shows the reason for their success.

Financing the party's campaign is more than a political matter to them. It is a business matter. So the job is handled, not by politicians, but by business men operating on a systematic business basis.

Instead of an array of political henchmen, whose first interest is in politics, the parade of witnesses from Pennsylvania consisted exclusively of business men who for business reasons want the Republican regime continued and who set about in a business like way to help accomplish that result.

TAKE Joseph R. Grundy, in charge of Republican collection activities outside Pennsylvania's "Pittsburg District."

Grundy runs a big wool carding and yarn spinning business at Bristol, Pa. The "turnover" of his business last year was some $5,000,000.

When he set about the raising of campaign funds, he went after it just as he would have gone after more profits for his own business. He didn't go out and demand money. He didn't try the usual political hold up game. Instead, he put on a systematic "selling campaign."

If he could sell his wares, convince the buyers that his Republican line of goods was all wool and a yard wide, he felt as certain that the cash would follow as that profits would follow additional favor established for his own factory's output.

Cut through a series of selling letters, extolling the merits of Republican protection. Coolidge calmness and general G. O. P. dependability, he built up, in a straight business way, a potential market for his political ticket.

When this had been done, and not till then he went after the cash. And the way it rolled in proved business acumen as valuable in politics as in merchandising.

After Grundy's "selling" letters, persons who were asked to come across didn't consider that they were being asked to dig up some thing for nothing but that they were buying a very definite and tangible valuable article for their money—four years more of Republican "good times" protective tariffs and "safety."

GRUNDY on the witness stand typified prosperity and success. Plump jowled, pink cheeked immaculately well groomed, he was himself the picture of business prosperity.

To questionings by Senator Caraway as to the extent he himself and other financial contributors in his state had benefited by special tariff provisions enacted by the G. O. P., he returned soft-voiced, placating answers.

Yes, he had long been interested in tariff legislation. He had made many trips to Washington in the past 20 years in connection with tariff schedules, particularly tariffs on wool and woolens. Yes, these tariffs had been a big help; they had brought employment and good wages to thousands of textile workers and hundreds of mill towns.

Similarly, the testimony of Nathan Folwell, who "took care of the weavers by taking money away from them," as Caraway put it; of Vauclain, Stotesbury, Atterbury and other Pennsylvania "big business" men all revealed that in the Keystone State politics is no mere business for politicians but a live and active field for real business men.

DIGEST POLL GIVES COOLIGE BIG MAJORITY

"On the basis of the present Digest poll, even allowing the critics their claim for a considerable margin of error, which may or may not be proved, it will be seen that the totals seem to point to the probability that Mr. Coolidge will receive the electoral votes of a sufficient number of states to insure his re-election.

"There are strong claims that Mr. LaFollette will carry both Minnesota and Iowa, but the Digest's figures do not indicate this. Minnesota's ballots have shown a consistent majority of considerable margin, for Mr. Coolidge throughout the balloting. Iowa seems to be even more strongly for the president.

"California, however, has from the first shown a strong sentiment for the Wisconsin candidate, and therefore, in spite of the fact that the present vote is 76,730 for President Coolidge to 65,169 for Senator LaFollette, the state is marked doubtful.

"North and South Dakota where the Nonpartisan league had its origin, are also put into the doubtful column because of the LaFollette strength shown there.

"Whatever arguments the Democrats have advanced for considering that the Digest's poll favors Republican aspirations would apply of course quite as well to LaFollette, and in admitting that LaFollette's showing makes the vote of California, Nevada and North and South Dakota somewhat doubtful, the Digest is following a policy of giving the benefit of the doubt to the Progressive forces. Similar doubts, on account of Democratic strength, are admitted in the case of Oklahoma, West Virginia and Maryland.

"With these doubtful states eliminated, it will be seen that LaFollette at least according to the opinion expressed by voters in the Digest poll, is sure of carrying only the single state of Wisconsin.

"On the other hand, there is some indication that, in the popular vote he may pass the Democratic candidate. Wisconsin casts 13 electoral votes.

"The states credited to Mr. Davis- Virginia, North Carolina, South Carolina, Georgia, Florida Alabama, Tennessee, Kentucky, Mississippi, Arkansas, Louisiana and Texas cast a total of 159 electoral votes.

"Granting Mr. Davis the doubtful states of Oklahoma, West Virginia and Maryland, the Davis total would be 165 votes.

"Granting Mr. LaFollette the state of Wisconsin together with the other states in which his strength is considerable—North Dakota, South Dakota, Nevada and California—his total electoral vote would amount to 39.

"The electoral vote of Mr Coolidge, according to these calculations would represent the difference between the total Davis-LaFollette vote and 531, the total vote of the electoral college.

"Mr. Davis' vote of 165, plus Mr LaFollette's vote of 39, a total of 204 votes, subtracted from the total electoral votes of 531 would leave Mr. Coolidge with an electoral vote of 327. The number of electoral votes necessary to elect is 266.

Your children's food

The foods your children eat today, determine their strength and health in later years.

Remember this; they must have well balanced meals. Their food should contain the right amout of mineral salts. These salts act as bone building material.

Bakings that are made of good plain white flour and baking powder contain the necessary amount of mineral salts. Allow your children to eat heartily of these bakings together with fruits and dairy products. This forms an ideal food balance.

When making quick rising breads and pastries such as: biscuits, muffins, cakes, waffles, etc., don't fail to use Calumet—the economy Baking Powder. It contains more than the ordinary leavening strength—it's the purest and surest leavener made. That's why it helps make your flour foods light and easily digested.

Millions of mothers use Calumet daily because they are interested in their children's welfare—their present and future health.

GUESS WHO

Put a sheet across a doorway and have the boys, one at a time show their feet below the sheet. The girls, on the other side of the door, must guess who it is.

The girls must now slip their hands through a hole in the sheet and this time the boys must guess the owners of the hands.

SLICING FLOUR

Fill a medium size bowl with flour and press down compactly. Turn it out on a square bread board in the middle of the table. On the top of the mound place a ring, very lightly. The idea is to slice away the flour without disturbing the ring. Each one in turn takes the broad bladed knife and removes a thin slice of flour. The person unlucky enough to knock down the ring must extract it from the flour heap with his teeth.

FORTUNE TELLING

In a tub of water launch little half walnut-shell boats, each one with the name of a boy or girl written on it. Stand in the center of each boat a tiny lighted candle. If two boats float together, those persons surely will marry. If the lights burn brightly their lives will be happy and unadventurous.

The directors will on Monday night formulate rules and regulations goveting the play for this prize and they will be announced the early part of next week.

The members of the country club are having rather a busy time. They have the Club members tournament in full swing and on Armistice Day they have the Legion Trophy as an extra event and now The Estep Trophy coming along at this time makes an ideal event from the fact that all members are playing in the other events and thereby giving the Pro an exact basis to form their handicaps for them to enter and play for this trophy. The Directors are urging that each member play a qualifying round this week, the weather being ideal, over fifty members have turned in their score card.

Ghost Pipes

The Night Wind sighs, and trees are talking;
Down grass-grown trails Ghost Warriors walking—
Forgotten trails dim shapes are stalking.

In the Time of Ginseng Berries
When the Smoky Moon rides high
Sleeping trails awake again—
To tread of warriors passing by.

Phantom Chiefs from long Star Trails
Come to hold great Council Talks
Dance and smoke these Calumets
And fade out when the White Dawn walks

The sweet Dawn Wind stirs night fogs drifting;
From out Dawn-Mist far hills are lifting—
The spruce crowned hills the Ghost Smoke rifting.
